The full drama of life is rich with possibility in these new, modern terraces in the Italian quarter of Leichhardt.

With walls that soar to a 10-metre high cathedral ceiling, foldback doors that open to timber decking and lawn, North Street Leichhardt takes terrace living to luxuriant heights. A flexible third bedroom with separate entry serves dual purpose as a home office, study or library. Just a stroll from the buzz of Norton Street, it is an address for those who love to live and live well.
